ORGANIZATIONS

AFS!!!

This year there were two AFS students, Ben Cuff of New Zealand and Corrine Amigouet of France. There were six returnees from AFS trips abroad and there are several people signed up for trips abroad this summer.

The returnees presented slide shows and gave talks about their experiences abroad. Casino Night was considered a great success. This was a tradition from past years revived to replace the AFS auction. This was done so that more people could be involved with AFS. There were some potluck suppers held during the year where the returnees and visiting AFS students fixed dishes from their countries.

This year's AFS board was very successful. The AFS students were active in all areas of Pembroke Hill life and there were good turnouts for all the AFS activities.

Alliance Ahhhs

Mornings are sleepy, and somehow, in just a few of them, the Alliance Club was able to assemble itself in order to meet some requirements that would make it an official Pembroke Hill organization. Officers had to be elected, a new constitution was drawn up and all kinds of crazy things happened. With a parcel of members opposed to some of the big hotshot organizations who stoop so low as to rely on the strength of the masses, the Alliance Club set out like a lone wolf to take on the culture of the world.

No longer was this band mystified youths, led by the heroic Bruce Burgess, to be known merely as "the French Club." The new constitution provided for the growing interest in the entire planetworth of countries. The Alliance Club is hot!

Veni, Vini, Vici

The Latin Club has once again charged through the onslaught of other well established organizations with long traditions at the school, and can finally begin to say "Veni, Vini, Vici!" For many years, the ancient language has attempted to make a place for itself in the myriad of organizations and failed. This year, with new offices and new determination, it finally accomplished its goal. John Durrett and Mary Mulligan served as Co-Presidents of the club, and Vicent Jacks was voted Treasurer. With other class reps, they set about to make a Latin Club.

The club first stepped forward by offering a movie, a modern Roman comedy entitled "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The next step was the Latin Banquet. An authentic meal was planned, complete with togas, songs, games, and a ceremony of Roman origin, Valentine's Day. Further proof to the success of this year's Latin Club was the response of Latin students and teachers. "Latin is great," said Tony Shapiro, a second year student, "I'd like to take other languages as well, and I think Latin will help me with them."

Ms. Rodgers summed up her thoughts with an optimistic, "Latin is off to a good start that seems to foretell an even better future!"

Debate Argues

The Debate Team made their long-awaited debut this year at Pembroke Hill. Coached by newly acquired history teacher, Carl Graves, the squad participated in four area tournaments.

Debate develops such skills as research, organization, argumentation, and communication, as well as creating an interest in current events. The 1985-86 team consisted of eight hardcore workers that met twice a week after school for an hour.

This year was described as a "tough one" by Graves. With all meetings after school, it was difficult for many students who expressed interest in the program to participate. Next year however, Debate will be offered as an academic solid fulfilling the fine arts requirement.

"What better place to have a Debate Team than a college prep school?" Graves queried. "If you think of the careers these students are preparing for, they need these kinds of skills that Debate can give them."

Raider Club Forms

The Raider Club, a new organization this year, was formed as a result of the recommendations of the Traditions Committee. It is a combination of Sunset's Athletic Association and Pem-Day's Letterman's Club.

The Raider Club included anyone who participated in inter-scholastic sports. The club promoted school spirit and competition in athletics. In addition to organizing the Homecoming celebrations, the club sponsored other activities aimed at supporting competitive athletics.

This year's co-presidents were Libby Bacon and Matt Woods.

Students Fight Drunk Driving

SADD is a student involved organization which is against drunk driving. Americans are very unique in having a problem with mixing alcohol and the automobile. The number of drunk drivers is phenomenal, and the number of people killed and injured in accidents due to drunk driving is over 270,000.

Mr. Woods, the area coordinator, commented, "The programs intend to make people aware of the problem. The problem is the numbers that are maimed and killed in accidents."

The student officers, Frank Williams, Libby Bacon, and Stacie Porto worked on organizing committees that will get all the student activities involved. There was a SADD council formed uniting all the chapters in the area.

Woods stated, "Many people do not know the immense numbers that are destroyed by driving drunk. It is vital that we make them aware of the seriousness of the existing problem. We are therefore forever trying to remind ..."

Senate Aides

Student government has worked this year to improve school atmosphere and address student problems. The weekly meetings were run by the group's president, senior Margo Wolf.

The organization began the year with the student-assistant program which helped new students adjust to Pembroke Hill by introducing them to returning students. Sophomore Kelly Evans commented, "It's hard to be a new student. I think the student-assistant program and luncheon really made me feel more comfortable because I knew people on my first day at Pembroke Hill."

The leadership workshop, which helped junior and senior leaders organize before school, was also a summer project of the student government.

After the start of school, student government began planning other projects. The Commons Room needed to be furnished. The board advised the architect and had the room's plan approved by the students. In addition, a tutoring program was instituted in which student could seek academic help with volunteers in each subject.

Student government also sponsored a CPR day and a blood drive in April. Wendy Greenberger commented, "I enjoy being on the student government because I feel it plays an important role in helping students feel more comfortable and happy at school."

Profits Made

This year the middle school student government differed from previous years. It consisted only of 7th and 8th graders, with representatives from each grade. Pam Shores was president first semester. Their activities included selling K.C. Trivial Pursuit cards, weekly donut sales, and collecting food for Thanksgiving.

Second semester the president was Jeff Thomas. Jenny Atterbury commented, "It was a great experience to have a voice in the activities of the middle school."

SOCIAL SERVICE

Social Service Works on 1ers

"It's hard to define exactly who is on our board because almost everyone in the upper school took part in something we did during the year. Granted, the officers and reps made up the base of a lot of activities, but credit must be given where it's due. The student response was phenomenal," said co-president Bill Bell.

The first sign of the students' willingness to work came with their participation in the annual Snoopy's Pumpkin Patch. Fifty-five students spent some part of their Saturday at Crown Center unloading and decorating pumpkins.

Many students came to the Wornall Campus gym that night for the Clash Dance which featured a benefit performance by the Caste and two fitting prizes for the worst dressed boy and girl.

The dance was part of the board's effort to raise money for United Way. The following Monday, Social Service staged an assembly featuring a spokesman from Kansas City's regional United Way agency.

The assembly kicked off a United Way Week which featured daily sales of items ranging from candied apples to balloons. The week, together with the Clash Dance, raised approximately six hundred dollars.

The board needed almost nine hundred dollars to meet their pledge of fifteen hundred dollars to United Way. The students, faculty and parents made up the slack with their participation in the Support-a-Team program. Those involved pledged a certain amount of money for every field hockey or soccer goal, or for every football touchdown. Money was still coming in throughout January, and the nine hundred and fifty dollar grand total far exceeded any fund raiser in the board's recent history.

Riding the wave of success from the United Way drive, Social Service launched a Thanksgiving food drive involving both the middle and upper schools. The board instigated a competition to see which high school class could contribute the most food. The results were announced at the Pembroke Hill Hunger Phone-a-Thon. The mock telethon featured acts from every high school class and a speaker from the Mayor's Task Force on hunger in Kansas City. The drive raised a total of one thousand pounds of food which was donated to the Harvesters Community Food Network.

In the three short weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas, the student body came through again by donating two carloads of food and gifts for the needy family that the board adopted at Christmas.

In the second semester, the upper school followed the board's lead in their increased concentration on volunteer work. The school continued its association with Harvesters by sorting and repacking food from their warehouse. Groups of three to four students went out into the community to weatherize homes for the elderly. Many people attended a Tiffany's Attic type diner which the Social Service helped put on to aid the Crippled Children's Nursery. The board also sponsored three very successful weekend volunteer projects at St. Luke's Hospital, and the Holy Family House, an area soup kitchen, and an area fund raiser for the Peace Corps.

Measured by the number of activities and the amount of student participation, this year was probably the most successful year in the board's history.

"I wasn't sure how successful we would be with the merger of the two boards," said co-president Susan West, "but the school's enthusiasm was there from the very first day. I think the Social Service managed to fill a space in our new school. The students learned how much fun it could be to help someone, both in the community and the world. I'm just glad to say that I was a part of it."

Lights Out

"What do you mean it won't go on? Try hitting the panel with something." With those words the 1985-86 Tech Club began its year quietly.

The crew consisted of three veterans, President Geoff Jennings, Rob "Wizard" Padula, and Mark Gauthier, as well as a handful of new members from the sophomore and freshman classes. The Tech Club was required to do all the lighting and sound for all assemblies and programs, as well as preparing and practicing for the complicated lighting patterns used in "Pippin."

"I think that we accomplished a great deal this year. We performed well, and in addition, we have a whole group who can continue the tradition. As to our five thousand dollar expense for the light bulbs, no comment," Jennings said. Music Director John Lovstad concluded, "Without them, it would have been very quiet, and it would have been extremely dark."

Scholar Is

Year after year, The Scholar shocks and surprises its readers, and this year will be no exception. Much to the amazement of the literate community, The Scholar is not only a published collection of excellent student works, but this year it will actually be distributed.

Of course, last year's difficulties in the production of The Scholar were due to the now infamous power struggle between Editors-in-Chief David O'Connor and Carl Pelofsky. This year, however, it was a different story. Pelofsky stated, "Sure, we fought. How could you blame me? I kept insisting that we should get a staff, but Dave said no. Now he's gone, and I still don't have a staff. The pressure on me is absolutely unbelievable."

The Scholar, the first co-ed publication, still proves to be... interesting. Senior editor Eli Lee commented, "I've really worked hard to reach the position of Executive Editor, and I'm proud of it. I would have bought Carl that Coke anyway, and this way we are both happy. It's a fine institution."

No Snow, No Fun

In the midst of winter, during the unseasonably warm days of January, the Pembroke Hill Cross-Country Ski Club happily pursued its goal of conditioning and readiness in case of snow. Weight training, running, and a lot of hope formed the core of the three day per week regimen of the group. Mark Holthoff, who organized the 15 member group, explained that he could foresee the team "becoming a viable force in the Cross-Country skiing competition of the greater Kansas City area." John Hendren and Doug Kassebaum, also charter members of the club, expressed their confidence in the potential for excellence in the sport. "We can do it," they said.

Since regular, long-lasting snow is an unpredictable event in Kansas City, the success of the new sport seems somewhat uncertain, but if enthusiasm counts, the team is already victorious.

Garret Published

The school's literary magazine, THE GARRET, produced two issues this year. The magazine consisted of upper school students' artwork, photography, poetry, prose, and short stories. The GARRET struggled to recover itself from last year's controversial and finally censored issue. What resulted were two issues of exceptional writing in a more conservative fashion.

Keene Hudson and Brooke Fogel were Co-Editors-in-Chief. Assistant Editors were Joshua Rowland and Laura Spradley. Paige Harper was the Art Editor, and a photography contest was organized to determine the cover of the January issue.

Jud Wright commented, "The GARRET. What a good idea. Nowhere else could my kind of imaginative magic be displayed."

Machine Rules

The VOICE, Pembroke Hill's school newspaper, started off well, despite the confusion of the merger and the new typesetting machine. The Editor-in-Chief, Chris Kelsey, managed to train most of the staff to operate his toy, the computer. It was primarily used for typing purposes, and different times were scheduled for each person to have a turn at using it. The VOICE members also participated in the annual VOICE-PINNACLE softball game in the spring. The paper, published every three weeks, managed to continue the tradition of excellence from award-winning previous years.

Homecoming Builds Spirit

Homecoming was a different and exciting event this year. The weekend of October fifth was allotted for all school events with the John Burroughs School. Burroughs, an archrival from St. Louis, bused their entire football, soccer, field hockey, tennis, and volleyball teams to Kansas City for the weekend.

Saturday, Pembroke Hill Tennis lost to Burroughs 2-5, but soccer tied 3-3. High points of the morning were Pembroke Hill's volleyball victory 3-1 over Burroughs. Also defeating Burroughs for the first time in twenty years, varsity field hockey beat the St. Louis team 3-1. It was an exciting time, especially for the senior players, who had lost to Burroughs for four straight years.

From the Wornall Campus sports field, the spectators could hear the Marching Cobras as they marched into the State Line football stadium. The crowning of the Homecoming King and Queen occurred during halftime of the afternoon football game. Matt Woods and Gina Rheinfrank were chosen and took a victory lap around the stadium. However, Raider football was upset by Burroughs 0-23.

That evening, the Homecoming dance was held on the State Line campus, featuring the "Proper Authority." As Joshua Rowland commented "I think that the emotional level of Homecoming was extremely high at this year's dance. It was interesting to see people interacting/reacting to each other."

Revels Continues

Revels was one of the few traditions which was kept at the Pembroke Hill school on only one campus. Traditionally, it was held for the entire student body at Sunset, but this year, the Traditions Committee decided that it would be more appreciated by the Primary and Lower schoolers. The Olde English traditions theme celebrated the holiday season before Christmas vacation on December 20th.

Jan-Term Enriches

The speculation is over. Following the great debates and arguments for and against Jan-Term: It lives on. Last year many students and faculty alike thought that they had experienced their final Jan-Term, mini courses or other suitable name. But not so, Jan-Term is back this year with a few new twists: no more two schools, no campuses and yes . . . OH NO! letter grades that actually count for college.

So what exactly is so special about Jan-Term? Mini-courses continue to offer subjects that are usually unavailable to students during the school year or at all. Courses like yoga, aerobics, weight training and How Does Your Diet Measure Up? help students enhance their physical and spiritual well-being, while CPR and first aid help students enhance other people's well-being. And yes, the old standbys like math PSAT/SAT review, Spanish II review, and Survival French build the mind. These courses are complimented by a host of others from the fun to the intense, and the bizarre to the practical.

The courses themselves aren't the only option for the two-week period. Over 50 students chose to do independent study that took from 1 period per day to the entire two weeks. The independent studies were as varied as the students who pursued them. Projects such as band, shadowing doctors, real estate agents and architects, photo essays and teaching mini-courses were approved.

Finally, one of the best aspects, at least for students, is the relaxing atmosphere. No, not "yeah, Jan-Term, what a blowoff," the grading system has helped to eliminate that, but an environment that students can come back to after two and a half weeks off, that doesn't instantly pressurize like regular school work often does. And heh, who wants to worry about school over break anyway? Certainly the students and faculty don't. The atmosphere also helps promote relaxed socializing and interaction with different grades. Perhaps sophomore Bar Helzberg summed it up best:

"The relaxed atmosphere leads to a certain ambience during the inter-term, an ambience which helps promote students' faculties and assists in the rough transition from seven day weekends to an academic environment."

Well, maybe it still is a little too relaxed?

The Last Supper

"The Perils of Poor Sunny Hill" was a real act of love that the senior fathers presented to their daughters. In this melodrama the senior girls were able to see their fathers dressed up, some in wigs, making jokes about their daughters' idiosyncrosies, teachers, friends, hangouts and even revealing "secrets" known only to few. The screams and laughter were louder than the fathers expected.

This was only one part of the whole evening that made the seniors feel so special. The poster size yearbook photos which hung on the dining room walls, the programs with the seniors' baby pictures, the wonderful dinner, and the conclusion with the poignant song, "As Time Goes By" sung by the dads added to the splendor of the occasion. Each senior was presented with a long stem red rose and an embrace from her father. The memory of that night will live on in the minds of each senior and her dad.

Senior Beth Gura added, "The whole evening was really sentimental knowing this was our last father-daughter dinner, but the play was definitely worth waiting for. We all loved it!"

Dinner With Dad

This year the Sunset Hill tradition of the Father-Daughter dinner was continued at Pembroke Hill. The only change in this tradition was that the classes were split up differently. The ninth and tenth graders had their dinner together and the eleventh and twelfth graders shared the evening together. Although the ninth and tenth graders did not get to see the skit that the fathers of the seniors performed, it was a very enjoyable evening. Jolyan Herman stated, "I am really glad the school decided to keep the tradition. It gave us all a chance to be with our Dads. I love it."

This year the 7th and 8th grade Father-Daughter dinner was held at the State Line Campus. According to 7th grader Lisa Nelson, this improved a lot of things. "Not only did we get to do our entertainment in the Hall Student Center but the food also really improved because of Tom Ayer." (The Food Director). After dinner the choral group did a presentation and there were monologues from the drama group. Wornall Campus Sees Stars

One of the newest and most exciting additions to the lower school year was Starscape. A week of special activities gave lower school students and parents a wonderful opportunity to forget their winter doldrums, focus on their friendships, set goals for themselves and improve school spirit. The festivities began on Saturday, February 8th with a pancake breakfast put on by lower schoolers for parents and faculty. The spirit of fellowship continued on the following Monday with a slide show of lower school students featuring the music of Q104.

On Tuesday, both the primary and lower schools enjoyed the Olathe North stage band as part of the brothers and sisters program. The following day was highlighted with a continental breakfast and an inspirational discussion by Dr. Gordon Kingsley.

The fun continued on Thursday when the lower school did their own version of "Putt'n on the Hits," lip-synching to tunes ranging from "California Girls" to the Chicago Bear's "Super Bowl Shuffle."

Valentine's Day was the last day of Starscape and perhaps the busiest.

The Q104 van treated the students to both music and stickers. The spirit of the week was spread throughout the city with the launching of several hundred helium balloons. As the balloons rose to the sky so did the students' positive feelings for their friends, family, and for themselves. "We tried to increase our students' awareness of their inner feelings and to create a beneficial atmosphere for the entire community," said lower school principal Barry White. "I think it was a tremendous success."

The festivities concluded with a party for each lower school class and a two hour family roller skating party. 5th grader Reed Kroh said it best, "Starscape was fun!"

A Look for Stars

In February, the middle school students held their own form of Jan-Term. The program was called Starscape, and was geared towards creating a positive attitude among students, parents, and teachers. The idea of Starscape came from middle school parents, and for a week, every child in the middle school was a star. Activities to promote positive attitudes included a HUG Day, a breakfast for parents and students, and parents participating in their child's gym classes. Seventh grade English students also participated in a "Meeting of the Minds" program in which they each adapted characteristics from a figure in history.

Middle schoolers, much in need of a break, found the program to be rewarding in many ways. Alice Park commented, "A week of positive thinking, fun games and activities can't be all bad, and besides, it prepared me for Jan-Term in the upper school!"

Fun, Fun, Fun, Fun, Fun

Assemblies shattered the everydayness of upper school life by exposing students to a wide variety of speakers and performers.

The AFS Board got the ball rolling with an assembly featuring the experiences of the summer exchange returnees. Students were dazzled by alumnus and close personal friend of Whitney Houston, Brian Motley. The fun continued with the Colgate 13 who performed many Hall & Oates originals.

The students got into the act with the Thanksgiving program featuring performances representing every high school class. The Ethnic assembly celebrated all the different cultures that make up our diverse student body.

Faculty advisor to Pembroke Hill's SADD chapter Mel Woods, gave an entertaining and moving speech on the responsibility that we all share concerning drinking and driving. Dr. Mike Carrera, author and speaker from the Hunter College in New York spoke to both parents and students of the upper school on the relationships between the sexes, as part of the Hazard Lecture Series.

"We had a good mix of entertaining and serious assemblies this year," said perky blonde Kent Fortner, "I think I would have gone crazy without them."

GLEE CLUB

The Freshman and Sophomore 1985-86 Choir sing their hearts out at Bravos.

Choral Merges

This year, John Lovstad combined the Upper School choral groups to form the Freshman-Sophomore choir and the Junior-Senior choir. The Junior-Senior choir was headed by co-presidents Lynne Fowler and Flagg Miller. The Freshman-Sophomore choir presidents were Heather Bath and Frazier Miller.

The groups performed together often: in Bravos, The Messiah, the Christmas program, and "Pippin," this year's musical.

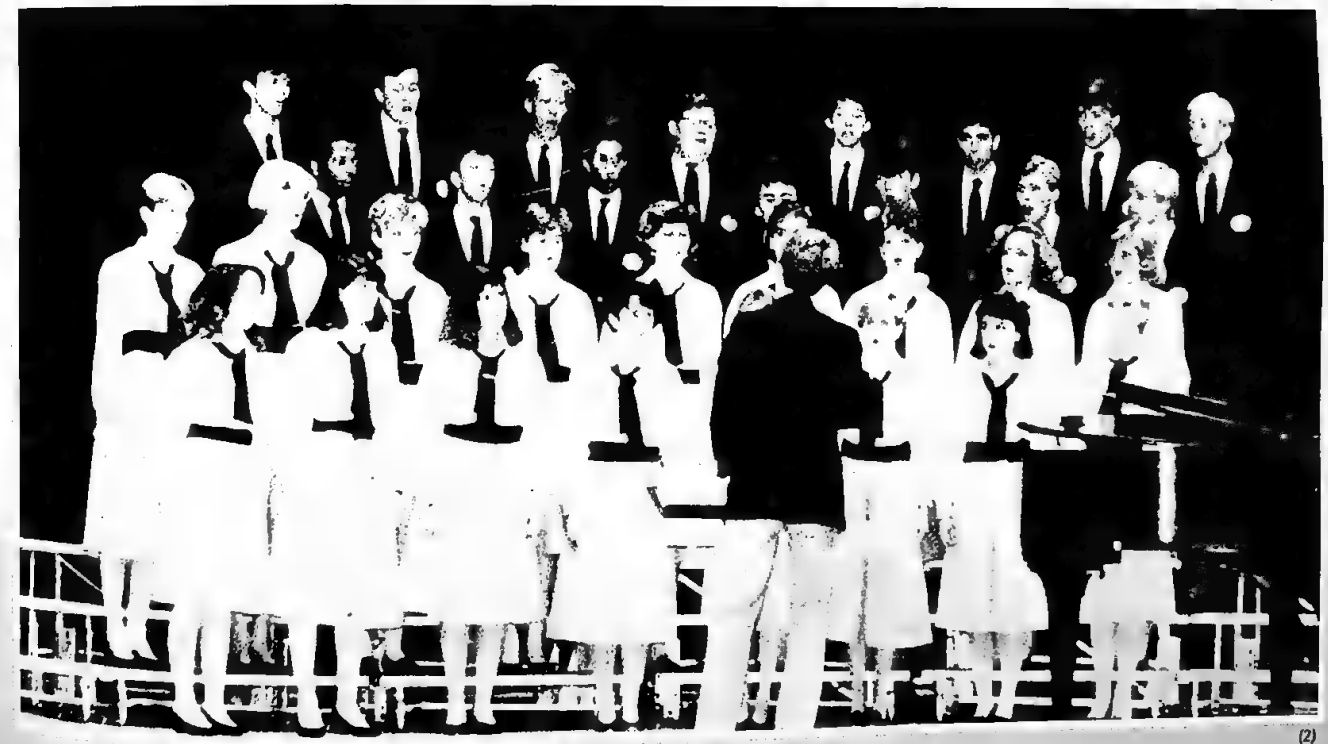

The Messiah was a tradition that continued this year with a new twist. Freshmen were added to the performing group. Mr. Lovstad was worried about introducing the complicated music to such young voices, but with several more rehearsals, the performance proved to be as good as years past.

The Christmas program was highlighted by "The Twelve Days of Christmas" featuring students from first through twelfth grades. The "Winter Song" was again performed by an all male chorus and alumni. 1985 alumni were invited to join the chorus in singing "Peace, Peace."

Glee Club has always been an enjoyable elective, and this year was no exception.

Youth Leads "Skin Of Our Teeth"

The Pembroke Hill drama department this year presented Thornton Wilder's THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH as their fall production. Its two performances, on November 7 and November 8, were held at Curry Theatre, located on the Wornall campus.

Thornton Wilder, a famous and critically acclaimed modern playwright, has written a number of popular plays, probably the most famous of which is the award winning OUR TOWN. The popularity of Wilder's plays most likely originates from the fact that they deal with mankind not only on an individual level, but also on the broad level of man as a species and world community. And THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH is no exception, symbolically tracing the Antrobus family through three ages of mankind: the Stone Age, the "Great Flood" following a period of decadence, and "the war to end all wars."

After considering the fact that this play was written in 1942, at the dawn of WWII, the message becomes clear; "Living is a struggle . . . Every good and excellent thing in the world stands moment by moment on the razor-edge of danger and must be fought for — whether it's a field, a home, or a country. All I ask is the chance to build new worlds, and God has always given us that." (THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH, Antrobus's final speech.)

Senior Drew Woolery, who played the leading role of Mr. Antrobus, commented, "I thought it had a lot more to say than some plays, and what it did have to say was clear; about the survival of the human race . . . it was easy enough for the common person to understand."

This year's fall production had an unusually young cast, bestowed upon it by a large influx of freshmen. Woolery again commented, "I was really impressed by the youth of the cast. I was a little worried at first, but I was quite impressed by the talent of the underclassmen."

MS Choral!

In 1985-86, the middle school choir worked with Debra Garth for the first time. She taught them new choral techniques and led them through their own production in May.

Each semester of this year emphasized new styles of music for the seventh and eighth graders. The first semester stressed choral techniques which the groups demonstrated at Bravos and the Christmas Program. Ms. Garth taught a more sophisticated class second semester when the choir performed their "Showcase '86." This show, not a musical, featured more students, solos, professional accompanists and choreographers.

This is a new choir at the Pembroke Hill School, and, for such a young group, they are gaining experience which they will bring to subsequent choirs.

This year's co-ed 6th grade choir met after school once a week representing one of the few after school activities in the entire lower school. "I think the fact that we were an afterschool time commitment actually helped the group because the kids who participated in the program really wanted to sing," said the director of the choir, Kit Bardwell.

The 24 member group elected a president, vice-president and secretary at the beginning of each semester. The year featured performances at nursing homes, school functions, a Starscape breakfast, and at the Alameda Plaza, at Christmas time.

Pippin Has Meaning

In choosing "Pippin" as the 1986 spring musical, director John Lovstad tried something new and different. "Pippin is a relatively new show (1972) and one that a fair percentage of the audience has probably not had a chance to see," Lovstad said shortly before the show. "It's different in the sense that there is no traditional plot. Pippin is an entirely new departure, both for the school and for musicals in general."

The show centers around Pippin's search for something that will give his life meaning. The leading player, senior Drew Woolery, coaxes Pippin, played by senior Keene Hudson, into trying war, sex, revolution, and family living as answers to this everpresent question.

In "War", Pippin follows the lead of his father, King Charlemagne, portrayed by an actor of enormous power, senior Flagg Miller and of his bellicose stepbrother Lewis, played by senior Joshua Rowland.

War leaves Pippin unfulfilled. He seeks the advice of his beloved grandmother Beuthe, portrayed by junior Holly Fisher. Beuthe tells Pippin, "Don't take life so seriously, just take things as they come along. What you need is ... some frolicking."

These hedonistic pursuits still do not satisfy Pippin's search for the meaning of life. Pippin turns to revolution, playing into the hands of his scheming stepmother Fastrada, played by ordinary housewife, senior Brooke Fogel.

Pippin assassinates his father, King Charlemagne, but finds the pressures of being Holy Roman Emperor to be too great. Pippin flees to the country and falls in love with Catherine, a wealthy widow played by junior Jana Jesse. Catherine's son Theo, played by third grader Nicholas Weil, captivates the wayward prince and together with his mom, brings Pippin to compromise his goals. Pippin has had a revelation: the mundane world can be satisfying.

Keene Hudson wisely said, "I like Pippin because it has meaning." In this respect and in many others, Pippin will be remembered as being one of the most different and exciting musicals in the history of the school.

JV AND VARSITY SWIMMING

Swimmers Float

A member of the 1988-89 Raider swim team was easy to spot this year. If you happened to be anywhere on campus you could see that the team had pulled itself together and had shirts with their various nicknames printed on the back. Senior Tim Reddin said, "The shirts were made to bring the members of the team closer together and to bring on an appearance of a bunch of good friends."

All of them worked hard, training in the early hours of the morning, and afterschool to strengthen themselves for this year's competition. Although their record did not amount to much, the team worked hard and had to swim against top teams in Kansas and Missouri. "Winning was not the important thing," Reddin commented. "The main goal of all the swimmers was to improve their times."

The team's representative to the State competition was Sophomore swimming sensation Lee Reddin. Reddin replied, "Yea! it was fun in state and I've got two more years to do it again."

VARSITY WRESTLING

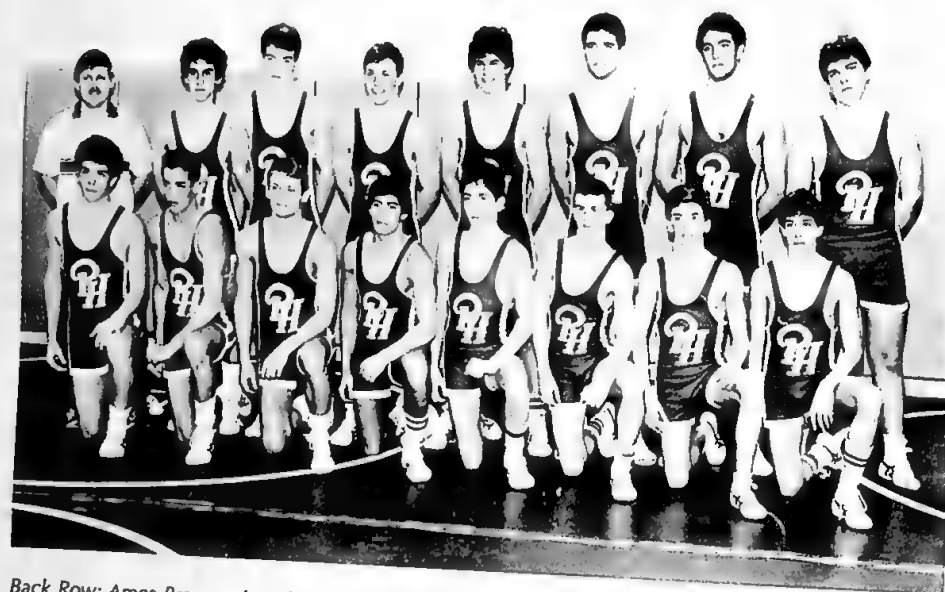

Raiders Accomplish Goals

The Raider wrestling team this year was, in the words of Coach Amos Branson, "The best team in the last five years." Although the season did not end in competition in the State Tournament, the Raider team surpassed many of its goals for the season.

Among the goals the team had this year, was to defeat Butler and St. Pius. Both goals were achieved. It was the first time that Pembroke Hill has defeated Butler since 1969, and St. Pius, since 1975. Additionally, this year the Raiders took first place at the annual Codasco tournament, with a record of 181 points.

The team was led by a small group of seniors, Mr. Branson's protégés for the last five years. But the ranks of the team swelled with the dedicated work of juniors Brad Barnhorst, Rob Padula, and "Magic" Mark Evans. Outstanding efforts were also given by the sophomores and freshmen, led by team captain Jason Johntz. The Raider wrestlers were represented at State by senior John Levinson. Levinson put up a good performance in both his matches, but simply was overpowered by his opponents. Coach Branson commented "Overall, we had a lot of individual talent on the team this year, and I'm really hopeful about next year's prospects."

Grapplers Prepare for Future

The JV and 8th grade wrestling teams gained much experience this winter, due to their exposure to varsity practice. These grapplers practiced with the varsity and went through the same rigorous conditioning and preparations for meets. Sophomore Will Scruggs commented, "It was good for us younger wrestlers to watch and compete with the better wrestlers because we can learn a lot from them."

The JV was composed mostly of sophomores and was led by the leadership of junior Mark Evans and sophomores Eli Metzger and Will Scruggs. The eighth graders were a strong young group which will provide a pipeline for future teams. Many of the wrestlers on these two teams were new to the sport but none the less picked it up well.

Coach Amos Branson concluded, "As is the case with all JV and younger teams, we're thinking towards the future, trying to establish the basics so they will some day develop into outstanding wrestlers."

JV Dominates Opponents

For the most part junior varsity basketball games are played for the purpose of tuning up one's skills and getting the experience needed for the following year. However, this year was different. This year's team had the skill to blow people away, but they also had the poise and experience to win the close ones. The J.V. played an integral part in the varsity's awesome season. They provided them with the tough type of practice competition needed. Coach Steve Timmons commented, "This year's J.V. team is next year's varsity, and they are going to be tough."

JV Struggles

The girls junior varsity basketball team got off to a very frustrating start this season. After the varsity lost several of their key players, junior varsity players were moved up. The junior varsity team was left with an inexperienced squad. The team won only one game against Wichita Collegiate. Sophomore Anne Kurtz commented on the season, "Although we did not have a perfect record, I think we improved a lot and I know we all had fun."

The outlook for next year looks good. Most of the junior varsity is made up of freshmen and sophomores, and according to Lisa Kiene, "There are a lot of good eighth grade players who we are looking forward to joining our team."

One Tough Season

This year, the last year of the girls varsity basketball program, was a tough season; however, they kept their spirits high. The team, coached by Tom Meyers, did not win a game. After losing a few starting players, the remainder of the team pulled together, keeping their level of enthusiasm high.

Starting senior forward, Erin Embry, said "It was sort of hard when three of our players quit, but we still had a lot of fun. I hope the girls next year will benefit from the new program."

ONE HELLUVA SEASON!!

The Class of 1986 continued its winning ways during the winter season. The Basketball team took fourth place in State. The team was led by a multitude of seniors including captains Mike Johnson and Matt Woods.

The Raiders started by quickly defeating the Alumni and virtually going unchallenged until they met the always tough O'Hara, to whom the Raiders lost in double overtime last year. This year it was the Raider's game from the start. We ended up winning by almost ten points. The Raiders continued their streak en route to a 14-0 record and a number seven ranking in the city before meeting up with Hogan. Hogan led from the beginning, but the Raiders cut an eight point deficit to two with six seconds left. The Raiders finally got the ball under their own net with two seconds left. Johnson's ten foot bump shot bounced off the back of the rim and it was the Raider's first defeat. Three games later the hoopsters met Westport in the finals of the Belton tournament.

The Raiders led by one with seven seconds left in overtime, when Westport's guard drove and threw-up a prayer from fifteen feet. The shot hit "all-net" and the Raiders had a second heart-breaking defeat.

Determined not to lose again, the Raiders stormed through the remaining five games and into the district tournament seated number one! The Raiders won every game by at least twenty points, placing several players on the all-district team. At the sectional playoffs the Raiders met Knobnoster, a team hungry for revenge after losing to PHS in football. Mike Johnson's twenty-eight points in the first half never allowed Knobnoster a chance to catch up. We won by thirty-four points. On that same night, Number one Lathrop was defeated, which meant that most eyes were on Pembroke Hill.

In the quarterfinals game against Plattsburg, Johnson made ten of eleven shots, coupled with his thirty-six against Knobnoster. He had scored sixty points in two state games.

At the state semifinal game, the Raiders met a "large" team, Nixa. The Raiders jumped out to a 14-12 lead but were quickly dealt a blow as Johnson left the game with his third foul two minutes into the second quarter.

Behind 28 to 18, at the half, the Raiders gave it all they had in the second half but could get no closer than 8, losing by a final of 66-51. Coach Phil Seifert commented "These games will always happen, it is just a shame it had to happen this far into the state playoffs. They just made a few mistakes."

The Raiders played Monroe City in the third place game, but could never get really rolling, losing in what could have been the best game of the tournament. The Raiders played three overtimes in which they played without Johnson, Woods and McCarter.

Several players said that "making the Final Four" was their goal. They certainly made it!!!

Players Improve

This was the first year for the eighth grade basketball team, which was coached by Wendy Jensen and Bruce Burgess. The team was made up of an A and B team that consisted of 20 girls total. The teams were basically novice with the exception of a few players. Even though the team lost all of their games, they improved tremendously and all the players enjoyed the experience. Bruce Burgess commented, "The girls were very excited about the team, and improved a great deal." The most improved players were Abby Hartzler and Rachel Beard. Pat and Pam Shores were very aggressive and Noel Andrews was a tall and good player at center. The eighth grade girls team did a great job and provided hope for the future.

Young Teams Show Promise

This year the eighth grade and ninth grade basketball teams walked away with very successful records. Both Mel Woods, the eighth grade coach, and Chip Campbell, the ninth grade coach, were content with the teams' performance.

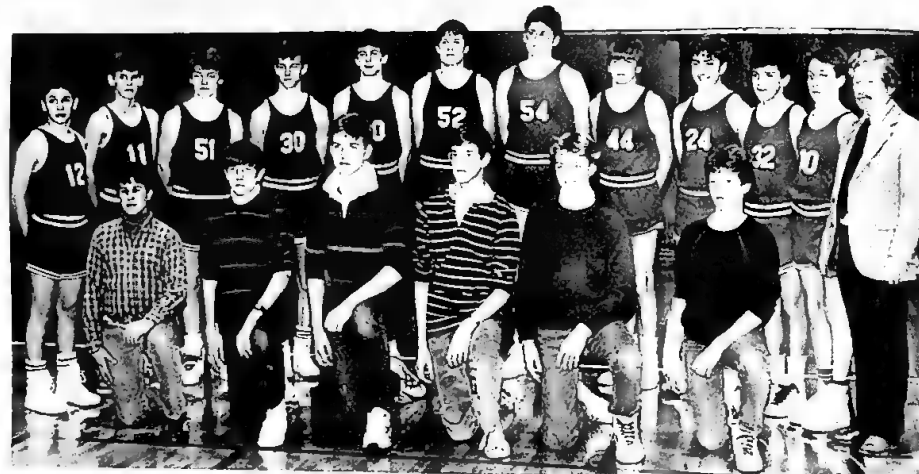

The eighth grade played 10 games and won seven of them. There were about six starters, Jeff Thomas, Jim Simmons, Cory White, Matt Davis, Brad Kroh, and Bobby Coughlin. Mel Woods commented, "They probably pass the ball better than any group I've had since I've been here." Although the season was off to a slow start, as the year progressed, the team improved immensely. They were successful with the press and looked for each other on the court. All in all, they played very well as a team and up to their ability. What more could a coach ask for?

The ninth grade basketball team also was successful with their 7-6 record. Although they had 6'4" Eric Johnson, their team was not very big, but they adequately made up for that with their speed. The two main objectives of coach Campbell were to run the ball up the court and be a fundamentally sound team. The starters, Eric Johnson, Travis Day, Chip Koester, Seth Prostic, and Baird Fogel, led the team to achieve both of these goals.

Overall both the eighth grade and the ninth grade teams met the goals set by the coaches which resulted in their winning records. For the eighth grade and the ninth grade it was a very successful year.

New Sport Boasts Achievements

Pembroke Hill's newest and smallest sports team had a very successful first season. The team was formed this year by running guru Chris Kelsey and Coach Art Atkison, a former trackster himself. Soon to join the team were sophomore Liz Kelsey and senior Jay McConnell. Despite the team's size the runners went up against some formidable 5A and 6A schools, many with 15 to 20 times the runners. Chris Kelsey explained, "I feel I benefited from what the bigger schools provided. It forced me to push myself farther and become a better runner." The entire team improved throughout the season. Liz Kelsey went from passing out in the first race to passing almost fifty people to finish at a commendable twenty-sixth out of seventy-five in districts. Jay McConnell managed to knock about three minutes off his times but was stopped short because of SATs. Chris had a fantastic season finishing in the top three routinely. He breezed through the 5K course at the state championship with a time of 16:31. This feat earned him second place in the state. He then went to the Kinney Nationals, and he ran an excellent race, finishing fourteenth out of 300 tough runners. Overall, it was a worthwhile season and each runner worked hard and the team improved.

Varsity Tennis Successful

"The teams had a great season and a good time," stated coach Karen Boulware. The tennis teams were one of the youngest teams and one of the best. They were dedicated to winning.

The Raiders began the season well in defeating Shawnee Mission North, Sion, one of the toughest competitors, and Barstow. Unfortunately, varsity lost to Liberty 2-3. But the team emerged victorious over William Chrisman. They were then upset in their toughest match of the season against St. Theresa. The team was redhot, defeating a tough Shawnee Mission East, and soundly defeating Truman, Oak Park, and Lee's Summit. Another tough match was Burroughs. The Raiders put up a good fight but it ended in a 5-5 tie.

The varsity squad ended their outstanding season, 12-4, with senior captain Cathy Corbin as a utility player in both singles and doubles. Corbin: "We all had a great time this year, and I think we played well overall."

JV Wins Big

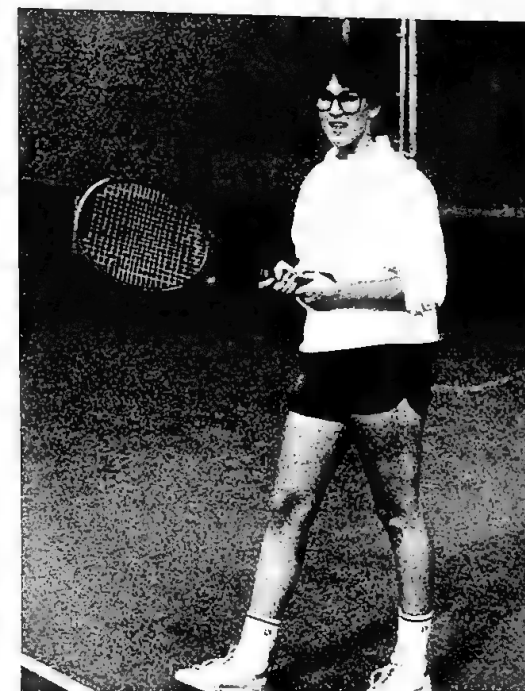

This year's junior varsity tennis team enjoyed one of the most successful seasons of Pembroke Hill's fall sports season. In her first year as the J.V. coach, Barbara Jacobs led the Raiders to a 9-2-1 record. The season was highlighted by shutouts of Barstow, Liberty, and Lee's Summit, as well as an 8-1 rout of Center High School.

"Ms. Jacobs really deserves a lot of credit. It's amazing for a first year coach to bring us all together so well," said senior captain Robyn Brown. "I hope the team continues its success next year."

Pembroke Hill's Varsity volleyball team found themselves in a new home this year, the newly converted Phillips Gym. Through the latter part of August and the first weeks of September, the varsity prepared for its first game against Lonejack. The team hadn't quite meshed and took a defeat. Following Lonejack, the Raiders took on Barstow and suffered a hard fought loss, losing the last game by only two points.

The team then travelled out to Barstow for a tournament still looking for a win. They came away with the fifth place trophy, finishing above host Barstow. Sophomore co-captain Stacie Porto was psyched about the tourney and said: "It was great coming in fifth in the tournament. I think it gave us some self-confidence. Placing above Barstow was awesome, too."

After the tournament the varsity took tough K.C. Lutheran and Englewood Christian teams down to the wire, but alas, not to victory. The team roared back with two straight victories versus Westport and John Burroughs, the latter being a 3-1 romp during Homecoming weekend. Senior co-captain Natalie Cortes viewed the match as a good one: "It was a great feeling beating John Burroughs 3-1, and it was our best match of the season. We were really up. The spikes and serves were good and we worked well as a team. It was great to win on Homecoming."

Following the back-to-back wins, both Barstow and Englewood had to stave off the now seasoned volleyball machine, with the Raiders taking two of three games from both teams. The team wrapped up the regular season with three tough losses to Sion, K.C. Lutheran and Hogan, but were psyched for districts.

The Raiders suffered a heartbreaking loss in the round of districts to Grain Valley after leading in the first game eleven-four.

Coach Georgeanne Marx summed up the season: "This season was a good learning experience for the team. We were young but had excellent skills. I'm looking forward to next season because we'll be getting almost all of our players back and a good number of them are going to volleyball camp."

JV Works Hard

After practicing for the last two weeks of August and waiting until the middle of September to play their first game, the J.V. was ready.

Barstow walked into the jaws of defeat and was beaten in two straight games. K.C. Lutheran followed suit and was lucky to take the two games, each by only two points. The team then suffered a tough loss to Englewood Christian but rebounded by splitting two games against Barstow at Barstow. Following Barstow the Raider J.V. took on Englewood again with the same results as the previous meeting between the two.

The final three matches of the season proved to be just as tough. The team traveled to Sion, K.C. Lutheran, and wrapped up the season at home against Hogan. At Sion, the Raiders took the first victory. However, Sion won the final two games. K.C. Lutheran was the next stop and proved to be the toughest of the final three matches; the team went down in two straight. The J.V. wrapped up the season at home with a stinging loss to Hogan, losing the final game by only three points.

It was a tough season, but the team could take solace in the fact that they took three out of four games from arch-rival Barstow. Sophomore captain Megan Mooreman summed it up well: "It was great to take three out of four from Barstow. We were really happy to beat them so badly!"

Coach Georgeanne Marx ended the season well by saying: "There were a lot of positives about the season as a whole. The team worked hard in practice, played well as a group and had great spirit throughout the season. Hopefully that will carry them on to next year."

Senior Booters Say Goodbye

The Pembroke Hill varsity soccer team, with a record of 9-6-4, would seem to have had a very successful season. But to the players, it was a different story. Senior Chris Figge elaborated, "Our record is pretty good, but we should have had a phenomenal year. We had what it takes, but it was just a matter of going out and getting it done."

The team fielded nine seniors of the starting eleven, most of whom had been starting since freshman year. Practices started in August, and the seniors knew even then that this would be their last chance at beating Rockhurst, winning Districts, and going to State.

As it turned out, the booters didn't fulfill any of these lofty goals, but there were some very exceptional performances aside from these three. In their opening game, they faced Shawnee Mission East. Senior David Hyde put in the game's only goal, a rocket from left wing. Hyde commented "I ripped the shot but I didn't think it would be the difference."

Another outstanding match was against top-ranked Shawnee Mission South. The Raider defense, led by senior co-captain Whitney Terrell, was truly menacing, shutting down the city's best forward, Chris Porch. With little time left in the game, Hyde again came through in the clutch, scoring with a long shot outside the box, to even the score to the eventual score of 1-1. Terrell said after the game "I love beating Proch."

The only rout recorded by the booters was a 7-0 victory over Sedalia — Sacred Heart. David Hyde, Richard Hubbard, and Will Scruggs had one each, while John Durrett had a big day with four. Bill Bell stated "It was important for us to gain the confidence needed to face tougher opponents coming up soon. Also, I got to play."

The Rockhurst game is perennially the "Big Game" of the year. Due to new District rules, the two teams were not in the same district, and this was the only time they would meet. It was a defensive struggle for the Raiders, but they hung tough throughout the whole game. They lost 2-0. Senior Brad Walters said "I always wanted to smoke Rockhurst. It was awfully disappointing."

The kickers ended the season on a positive note even though the 1-4 score may not have been indicative. The Raiders had many chances to score and it was a relatively even game, opposed to the routs that Sedalia usually posted. John Durrett got the goal on a free kick, but it wasn't enough as the potent Sedalia offense prevailed. Head coach Ed Quigley explained "Even though we lost, we played very well against the same kind of competition we will face in post-season play."

In Districts, the Raiders beat KC Lutheran 2-0 after a first round bye. The big game was in the finals against the O'Hara Celtics. The Raiders stormed the Celts in the first half with four goals, but in the second half with four goals, four overtimes, and a shoot-out, O'Hara pulled it out, making all five shots in the shoot-out. The season was over, and everyone, especially the seniors, felt the devastation of the loss.

Although there were certain disappointments, the Raider team did manage to gain some recognition. Throughout the season, the team was recognized in the Top Ten in the metropolitan area. The STAR/TIMES sports writers named Whitney Terrell as second team all-metro for his consistent play at fullback.

JV Team Tough

This year's junior varsity and C-team soccer players did what had never been done before this season. They went onto the field with a positive attitude. It's a crying shame that the attitude did not result in a winning season.

The fellas do deserve some credit. They played every game like it was their last. Speaking of last, unfortunately, that's where they ended up most of the time.

The Raiders' record was not impressive but that is beside the point. They overcame much adversity and turned their dismal season into a morally beneficial one.

Captains Tim Freund and Steve Johnson both commented at the exact same time, "I think Goldie and Scruggs did a wonderful job of coaching." Goldie and Scruggs were the soccer coaches, Reed Goldsmith and Bill Scruggs.

JV FIELD HOCKEY

JV Learns

The junior varsity field hockey team had a season of growth and experience. The majority of the team were freshman players barring a few sophomores and juniors. Except for a select few who added previous years of experience on the team, the majority of the girls were first year hockey players. The coaches, Avery Hughes and Susan Reuter did an excellent job in improving the team's hockey skills and maintaining a successful season.

/ar y Beats Burroughs!

The varsity field hockey teams had a fantastic season — the first winning season in more than five years. Susan Reuter was hired to coach along with Avery Hughes, who has coached field hockey for several years. Reuter proved to be a great asset to the hockey program and worked well with her slightly shorter counterpart.

A major thrust of the season involved "getting on the offensive," as Reuter put it. The varsity A and B teams practiced two hours every day after school and spent numerous weekends travelling to the ends of Oklahoma and Missouri to play ancient rivals — Casady, Visitation, Cor Jesu, and Holland Hall.

Although the A team started off with a depressing defeat against arch rival Barstow, they roared back with several knockout victories against teams that have been tough competitors in the past. They won games against Casady and Holland Hall — a victory Mr. Bird was extremely proud of.

The B teams had tremendous wins too. They totally annihilated Barstow in three out of the four games played. They also defeated their Oklahoma rivals. The highlight of the season, however, was Homecoming weekend when both teams defeated John Burroughs, a team which the hockey team had not beaten in over twenty years.

The A team was dominated by seniors who have played since eighth grade, and it showed in their teamwork. Their skills were complementary and well-seasoned. The B team had young talent and promises much for the future.

Gina Rheinfrank, varsity co-captain, summed up the season, "What an incredible way to end a high school hockey career! The team has finally come around! Attitudes are positive and spirits are up! Next year will surely be a winning one! I'm so psyched!"

How About Them Raiders?

The 1985 Raiders' football season was the most successful one in the history of the school. At 11-2, the Raiders had the best record in the school's football history. The eleven wins were two more than the previous high of nine, and the second place finish proved to be the school's best finish ever by the football team and the best finish of any Raider team since 1981.

The Raiders' motto was TEAM. There was no single star, only a bunch of guys working together as a team.

The team's main star was a swarming, tenacious defense which had four shutouts and three games in which their opponents scored only once. The Big Red simply overpowered their opponents with a fearless running attack led by senior captains Damon McReynolds and Matt Woods. Woods and McReynolds gave much of their credit to the "Fearless Five," the nickname given to the offensive line this season. "They opened holes we could've driven a truck through," said McReynolds after the game against Sherwood, in which both McReynolds and Woods gained well over a hundred yards.

The play of the line was highlighted in the District Championship game against Knob Noster, at Knob Noster. Knob Noster was riding a 21 game winning streak and was the defending 2A State Champion. Matt Woods summed up the game best. "We just dominated them, that's all there is to it!" The Raiders allowed the Knob Noster offense no more than four yards on the first possession of the game. The Big Red returned home with a 23-14 victory and a spot among the final eight teams in the state.

On the following Monday, the Raiders took on St. Pius for the bragging rights of Kansas City and a spot in the semifinals. The game was termed by many alumni and fans as "the best football game they had ever seen." St. Pius moved the ball well in a tough-hitting game, but the Raider defense denied St. Pius of several scoring opportunities with three goal line interceptions by Eli Lee, McReynolds, and Tommy White. Both teams managed to get one touchdown, but neither could convert the point after. The Raiders' kick was wide and St. Pius' running attempt was smothered by the Raiders' defense. In the overtime, the Big Red got the ball first and moved to the St. Pius seven yard line where Bobby Jackson sent a twenty-four yard field goal through the uprights. The Raider defense took over, sticking Pius for minus thirteen yards in their four plays. The crowd swarmed the muddy field as the Raiders were off to Republic, Missouri to play the semi-finals of state.

In Republic, Damon McReynolds bobbled the opening kickoff at his own fourteen yardline and turned on the speed en route to an 86 yard touchdown. The Raiders never trailed as Bobby Jackson added a school record 44 yard field goal just before the half. Matt Woods added a 24 yard touchdown run and the swarming Raider defense led by Captain Charlie Letts was never really tested, stopping the only Republic drive deep in Raider territory. Final score: Pembroke Hill 17, Republic 0. The Raiders were off to St. Louis for the first State Championship game in the school's football history.

In St. Louis, the Raiders met long time rival St. Louis Country Day. Codasco capitalized on five Raider turnovers and defeated the Big Red 28-0. However, there was a bright spot as Matt Woods led all rushers with 152 yards.

Several Raiders received honors for their hard work. On the All-District Team, David Eckles received second team status as a defensive end, Bobby Jackson was a second team punter, and Matt Woods at running back, Robert Belshe at offensive tackle, and Charlie Letts at linebacker all received first team All-District. Three Raiders were on the All-State Team. McReynolds at defensive back, Belshe at offensive tackle, and Letts at linebacker all were awarded All-State standing. Finally, the All-Metro Team had six Raiders on the team. Quarterback Jackson, lineman Belshe, running back Woods, defensive back McReynolds, and linebacker Derrick Stewart received Honorable mention. Letts was chosen to be on the Second Team as a linebacker.

The players were not the only ones to be honored however. Head Coach Bob Hicks was chosen as the Missouri Class 3A Coach of the Year.

Hard Work Improves Team

The Pembroke Hill JV football program was characterized by youth and hard work. Since every JV player also suited up for all the varsity games, the young players gained experience. Only two Juniors participated in JV this year, and the rest were sophomores.

This year the JV schedule was one of the toughest ever, including games against Southwest and Sumner Academy. The young Raiders dominated teams in their first two games and in the third game, Robbie Hicks provided the winning margin with a last second field goal, to beat a tough East Buchanan team.

Perhaps the only weakness of this young team appeared in the last two games. Both games were played on Mondays following very physical and emotional varsity games the previous Friday nights, in which some sophomores participated. One varsity player commented: "It is difficult to get prepared emotionally just two days after a varsity game." The Raiders lost the last two games, but were in both games until the final minutes.

Fighting in the Sun

The eighth grade football team showed great promise this season. Despite their 1-2-1 record, they played with great enthusiasm and effort.

In their opening game, they displayed immense talent by defeating Pleasant Hill 16-0. The team's two touchdowns were scored by Carter Davis and Jeff Thomas. Being their first shutout, this game sparked a feeling of excitement in the players.

This feeling was soon cooled by disappointment, as the Raiders lost their next two games. Both Leawood and Tonganoxie proved to be stiff competition for the young Raiders. Although not reflected in the 20-0 and 22-0 score, respectively, the Raiders put up a good fight.

To end their season, the Raiders recovered with a tie game against Turner. Davis scored the only Raider touchdown as the game ended in an 8-8 deadlock.

"We have a lot of strong players but we just don't have a lot of experience," commented Thomas. After a few more years, perhaps the current 8th grade football team will prove to be a welcome addition to the Varsity squad.

Raiders Improve

Freshman football had a reasonably even year. After they lost to Sumner in their opening game, they came back with a big win over Turner. The young Raiders then played two close yet unsuccessful games against Hogan and Leawood. They ended the year with a win over Lee's Summit. "We primarily ran the ball," commented quarterback Kelly Manning.

Most of all, the freshman team enjoyed their season. "We were sad to see it end," remarked Jared Coburn. Player Bush Helzberg added, "We went out on the field and, win or lose, we just had fun."

Cheerleaders Ignite Crowds

Cheerleading was different this year from previous years. Instead of a faculty advisor, a special cheerleading coach, Mary Beth Marchiony, was hired. She worked with both junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders. The cheerleading squads practiced every Tuesday for two hours. They were required to go to every practice, making cheerleading a large commitment for the girls involved. Marchiony commented, "Most of the girls had never cheered before this year. Only three girls out of the junior varsity and varsity squad cheered last year. Because of this fact, there was a lot of spirit and enthusiasm on the squad."

There were no seniors either on the squad. Underclasspeople made up the teams. Sophomore Heather Bath and junior Micki Sotta were varsity co-captains. Micki stated, "We really enjoyed working together as a team. We practiced hard and had fun at the same time. Mary Beth was really supportive and had a lot of great ideas." Laura Mackey and Heather Merrigan were the JV co-captains.

Eighth grade cheerleading is a new addition this year. It was started by two mothers, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Langhorn, who both have eighth grade daughters. Any eighth grade girl could cheer. They practiced after school twice a week, and performed at eighth grade football games.

In a purely supportive role to the cheerleaders, the 1985-86 edition of the yell leaders continued their tradition of ... yelling, with wild exuberance and a sustained, deranged mode of thinking. Magna Cum Laude proved once again to be a brilliant asset to any school.

Managers Valued

Pembroke Hill's varsity and i.v. managers earned some long overdue respect this year. In the past, there have been those who have wondered about a manager's role on a given team. In 1985-86 this was never the case.

Most every player recognized that each manager made a very positive contribution to their team. "The managers have been a real plus for us this year. They're the first ones here and the last ones to leave," commented Athletic Director, Pat White.

Tedious tasks were taken on and accomplished by managers. Coaches and players greatly appreciated all their work.

There is one manager who stands out above the rest, Mark Muehlburger. Mark has been the varsity football manager since his sophomore year, and the manager for basketball and track in all 4 years of high school. The Kansas City Star recognized his accomplishments this year with a full page article.

Without the aid of managers like Mark, the athletic teams of Pembroke Hill would have probably disintegrated. "We always looked at the managers as part of the team," explained senior Sean Pickett. "I don't know what we would have done without them."

WHAT A TRIP

Mary Mulligan spent ten weeks in Italy. "I visited Rome and lived on the island of Sardegna with a family. I then lived in the capital city of Cagliari for nine weeks." Mary spent the majority of her time lounging on the beach getting tan. Her most memorable times were spent with friends who showed her much of the country.

Paige Harper went to Yugoslavia. For two weeks she lived in Zagreb, the second largest city, in a high-rise apartment complex. The rest of her stay was spent in a primitive cottage in the fishing village on the coast of the Adriatic. Paige learned to speak her family's native dialect, and cook several native foods. "This summer was so different than anything I have ever experienced, and for that reason, it was so meaningful."

The 1985 summer French Trip was, in the words of French virtuoso David Hyde, "Parfait!"

With nine Pembroke Hill students and twenty-five Barstow students, the illustrious group started in London for a glorious three day stay. From there they moved to glamorous Paris for four days, then to Antibes on the Riviera for their three week stay. School in the morning and excursions in the afternoon proved to be a welcome schedule for the students.

Following Antibes, the students took a night train to Rome and then, to include all forms of transportation, embarked on a cruise around the Mediterranean. Crete, Alexandria, Cairo, Turkey and Athens were all included on this trip of trips.

Senior John Durrett wistfully recalled the summer days. "It was totally cool. Sun, sand, hey... Surf's up!"

David Barker went to Tunisia over the summer. His first month was spent in Tunis, the capital city. He lived with two sisters and two brothers and spent a lot of time at cafés. He later moved to the city Sfax and attended many weddings. Barker liked sitting around and watching tourists. He felt proud to be able to answer their questions.

Kiki Massman spent the summer in Greece. Her first weeks were spent outside of Athens in her family's summer house. The second month was spent traveling in the Cyclades. Kiki's best memories were of the time spent with family and friends.

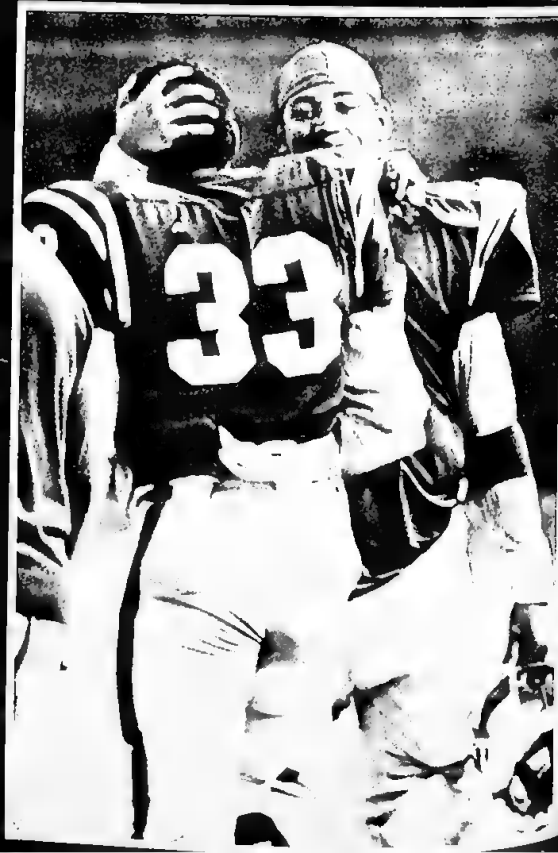

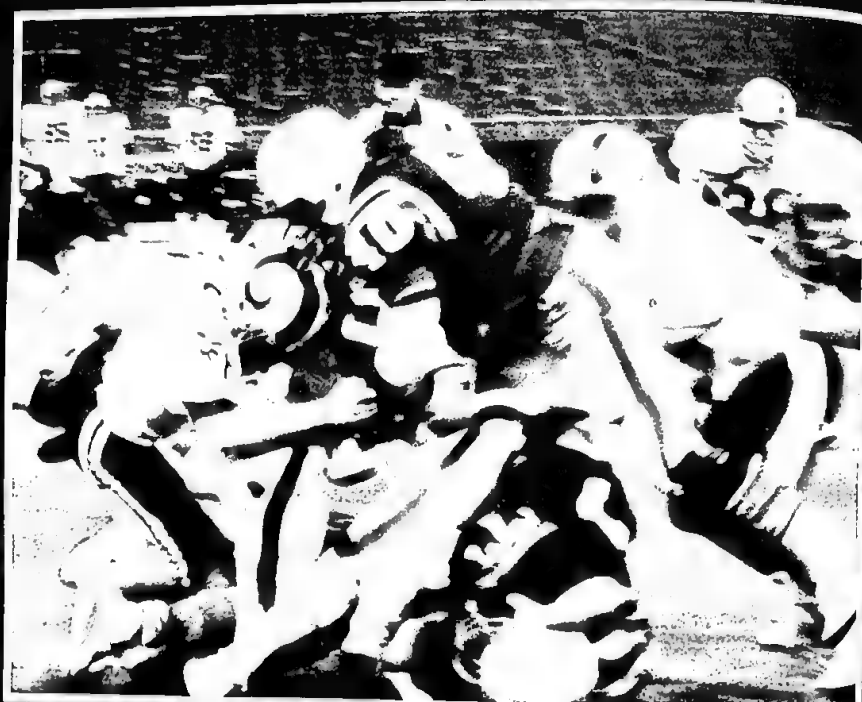

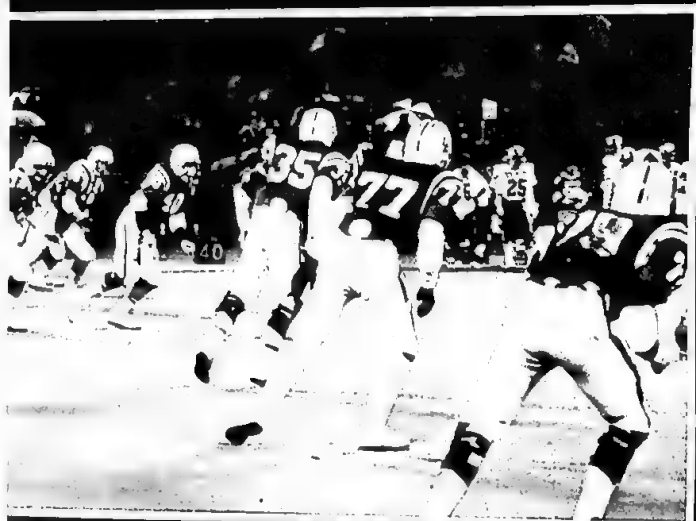

Brooke Fogel lived in South Africa. "South Africa was, to me, more than just a living experience. It became a political one." Fogel lived in Grahamstown under the State of Emergency. She travelled into several townships and a black homeland, attempting to understand the complexities of Apartheid. Brooke commented "I am just now beginning to understand what I saw there. I was so fortunate to have witnessed a vexing political situation."

Ellison Pearson spent the summer in Brazil. Her motto for the trip was "AFS is not a vacation." Ellison was confronted with a Portuguese language barrier. She ate a lot of good food and took many siestas. Her trip climaxed in Rio, one of the places she will "remember and cherish."

CLASSES

Bill Bell, a senior, asked several preschoolers, "So, what did you guys do today?" "I went to the purple room and made a tree during explore time," responded a sleepy Leo Salinger. Explore-time comes at the beginning of each school day for these kids. It gives them a chance to do whatever they want to. Each room has a different craft; they wander from room to room and do as many things as they have time for. "It's new this year and I think the kids love it," commented preschool teacher Kit Smith. Bill Bell dug further, "Do you like explore time, Leo?" "Yes. Now would you please let me down! I gotta go make a snowman." "Did you have a good day today, Brooke?" asked Bell of an unsuspecting youngster. "My mom woke me up real early and I'm exhausted." "What did you do today?" "We went to computers and we typed our names and I typed my cousin's name and then we made a Gingerbread House. But yesterday we didn't because we went to this library and I read Peter's Chair, and it was very good." "Do you like School?" "I like it the mostest!!"

There were fifty-two second graders this year, divided into three home rooms. Coeducation went well and was apparently well accepted by all.

The second graders experienced a variety of things this year. These included a study of nature and its interrelationships, and a close look at the famous people of the city, state and country.

In the winter, the second graders visited Kaleidoscope. They learned about various important people in local and American history and conducted in-depth research on them.

Everyone had a challenging and fun year and adjusted well to the new environment.

What I think made the school great was everything. First, we got to school all spaced out and not knowing anything. Then we got used to new teachers and co-education. The teachers probably couldn't get to sleep thinking, "How will I line them up?" or, "Will I get fired?" and stuff like that. Then we went to outdoor school (Wildwood) for five days. By this time our teachers were saying, "You should know better; it's not the first day of school!"

"I was basically in the neutral zone about the merger. The reason kids liked the idea was because their parents told them it would train them better to get along with girls."

My grade is much bigger this year. Last year there were 36 boys and 17 girls. This year there are 64 kids. If you're not in the same class as your friends, you don't get to see them. The boys in the 6th grade now, might have been the luckiest. We ended up being the head of the Lower school two years in a row.

One of the most enjoyable things we did this year was to go to Wildwood. I had the most fun at the Adventure Challenge Course. We were put into groups and were taken on hikes. Another fun thing we did was study the '60's and '70's in art class. We were assigned to do marker drawings like Peter Max. At the end of the unit, we had a party with a '60's singer.

All in all, this year has been weird for sixth graders, as well as the rest of the school. But I think I speak for everyone in my class in saying that I had a great time."

Seventh Grade marks a year of change and challenge; a year filled with triumph and defeat. For the Pembroke Hill Class of 1991, the year met all, if not more, of these expectations.

An important trip to Outdoor School early in the year diversified the 7th Grade learning experience. Not only were they welcome to commune with nature, but they were allowed to get acquainted with each other. As a result, many friendships were established.

In addition, sports such as basketball, football, and field hockey were played competitively amongst the respective sexes. A sense of competition and camaraderie arose from these athletic events.

The Seventh graders produced their own community: a pleasant, amiable, and successful one. As one seventh grader stated, "Though I'm looking forward to next year, I have experienced many different and important aspects of Middle School life."

The Eighth grade class this year was one with a unified structure. From athletics to academics, the eighth graders excelled. They were definitely the pride of the Middle School. Eighth grader Cory White commented, "I think this year really prepared us for our upcoming high school years." All year long the "sevies" looked up to the seniors of the Middle School. Respect for elders (eighth graders) was the main theme for the 85-86 eighth grade school year.

This year's freshmen will be the first to graduate after going through four years of coeducational classes. In addition to enjoying many of the old traditions, they will establish a few new ones. During the first weeks of school, they jumped right into the school's hectic social life and showed, with their energy and enthusiasm, that they are determined to leave their mark on the school.

The Big Brother/Big Sister program helped the freshmen get acquainted with upperclassmen. Said Susan Scruggs, a new student, "Everyone has had a good time. I just wish the senior boys didn't have to graduate!" Freshman class president Tony Beasley echoed these sentiments. "We all loved this year. We boys especially enjoyed the advantage of watching all the Upper-School women."

The class of 1991 has been described as diverse, interesting, individualistic, and outgoing. The class has an air of confidence. It also has a reputation of success. Athletically, the sophomores have excelled in all the sports. Putting members on the varsity soccer, basketball, field hockey, cross-country, tennis, volleyball, basketball, wrestling, track, and baseball teams certainly shows the class has only two years into the Upper School arena. The class has always posted a plethora of people on the Honor Roll. Sophomores are active on the major boards and publications. As Middle School principal Tony Strub summed-up, "This after-school study hall."

The junior class developed many new characteristics as the school year progressed. They became more involved in social activities, school boards, and sports. They have also demonstrated academic achievements and potentials. The junior class generally became more involved with the whole high school scene. As Senior Soodie Beasley proclaimed, "Wherever I go, there is a junior. At parties, at yearbook, off-campus, they're everywhere!" To the juniors, the most valued advantage of this first year of co-education was the development of new friendships.

"Deal with it."
"I'm not drinking tonight."
"The two things I want in life are some tasty waves and a righteous buzz."
"It was all a mistake."
"I can't deal with this right now."
"Are you serious?"
"Hey, how you doin'?"
"My parents are going out-of-town
this weekend."
"I'm serious."
"But that's not fair."
"My little strawberry slice of fun."
"Where are the women?"
"That's not funny."
"Whaaaat!"
"Like, all right dude."
"I'm psyched."
"Get away from me Rob."
"What a crock!"
"I disagree."
"What happened . . . ?"
"Would you . . . ? Wouldn't."
"Oh my God you guys, Rusty called."
"Have you seen Drew?"
"That's why I have this."
"I know, I know, but I just don't feel like going."
"How vec di chiese"
"Honesty is the key."
"What the ———-!?"
"Say what!"
"You die."
"The thing is . . ."
"What fer?"
"So, what's the point?"
"Wait up guys"
"What?"
"Where am I?"
"Good bye."
"Ohhhh Missy"
"Listen, you guys . . ."

The year 1986 saw the creation of a new school. Buildings, names, and people had changed. New feelings and traditions were born. Coeducation arrived on the two campuses with an awakening and burgeoning spirit of cooperation from all involved. The start of the new Pembroke Hill School was propitious, and we look to the future with renewed vigor and a sense of purpose.
